Woman on Way to Ball Game Killed in Crash in Jersey.

MAN VICTIM WHEN TAXI HITS "L" PILLAR

Car Plunges Into Canal—Owner, Rescued, Dies Later in Hospital.

Two men, a boy and a woman were killed yesterday in automobile accidents in or near New York City. Eight others were injured, among them a bride of a few minutes, who was hurrying with her husband to catch a train for the beginning of their honeymoon.

Mrs. George Jeffries, of New Providence, N. J., died instantly when the car owned and driven by Robert Barnes, of New York, in which she and her husband were riding, smashed head-on into the machine operated by Harry Neats, of East Orange, on the road leading from Summit to Mendham.

The Barnes party was bound for the ball game at Mendham. Near the top of a hill, two miles outside the town, Neats's machine crashed into them. Mrs. Jeffries was pitched clear of the car and landed on her head. Other passengers in the Barnes car received slight injuries.

Christopher Duryea, of Highland Park, N. J., drove his car through the guard rail of the open drawbridge of Albany Street, New Brunswick, N. J., last night and dropped twenty-five feet into the canal below. He was rescued from the water, and died an hour later in St. Peter's Hospital. Frederick Witt-offsky, of New Brunswick, who was in the car with him, broke his arm.

George H. Elliott, thirty years old, a salesman, of 230 West Thirty-ninth Street, was killed instantly when the taxi in which he was riding struck an "L" pillar at Ninth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street, at 10:15 p.m.

Elliott and Edna Purcell, of 205 West Eighty-fourth Street, who said she was a vaudeville actress, and the wife of Joseph Brockway, who picked up the car, were killed instantly when they were early yesterday to a drug store from stays of several hours in cabarets. They were in a taxi driven by Frank Huber, of 112 East Thirty-second Street.

Huber tried to circle and cut in ahead of a northbound car when his machine skidded into the pillar. He was pinned in his seat by the steering wheel, but escaped injury. The woman was taken to Polytechnic Hospital, suffering from a fracture of the right leg and lacerations of the forehead.

From papers found in Elliott's pockets it was learned that he was soon to leave for Europe on a business trip with a large company trading in South Africa.

When Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson were married at Summit yesterday they detected that their wedding feast should not start with the accustomed bombardment of rice and old shoes. After the ceremony had been performed they slipped away to the wedding reception at the Hotel Hamilton, where the bride and groom were to be entertained.

De Luca, six years old, and Joseph Russo, seven, of 827 East 117th Street, collided with an automobile while roller skating down Park Avenue, near 115th Street. The car was driven by Joseph Russo, who picked up the children and took them to Beth David Hospital. Russo died early this morning. De Luca's condition is serious.

Dr. De Luca, six years old, and Joseph Russo, seven, of 827 East 117th Street, collided with an automobile while roller skating down Park Avenue, near 115th Street. The car was driven by Joseph Russo, who picked up the children and took them to Beth David Hospital. Russo died early this morning. De Luca's condition is serious.

The physician's machine had almost cleared the track when the locomotive struck the rear end, throwing the car against a tree. Dr. Bulson struck the roadway upon his head. Soon Dr. J. R. Hutchinson and other physicians arrived, and as they worked upon the injured man he told them just how to relieve his pain. He was found to have sustained a compound fracture of the skull, a fractured arm and lacerations, as well as a severe shock. He was taken to his home at Lincoln and Park avenues.

William Patterson, six years old, of 132 Norman Avenue, Williamsburg, was probably fatally injured when he was knocked down and run over by an automobile at Oakland Street and Norman Avenue. At St. Catherine's Hospital he was found to have a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Martha Konobsky, eighteen, of 550 East Sixteenth Street, and Lillian Bailey, twenty, of 235 East Fifty-first Street, were struck by an automobile which the police say is owned by Mrs. Eva Jokubinis, of 532 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. They were attended by Dr. Norris, of Polytechnic Hospital, for contusions and shock.

Charles Victor, of 1305 Avenue A, was injured when he was struck by an automobile at 1305 Avenue A.

was struck by a taxicab at Eighth Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street, and was taken to Polytechnic Hospital, suffering from shock.

Matthew Ricciolo, of 339 East Sixteenth Street, was struck by an automobile last night at Broadway and Fourteenth Street. He was taken to the Post Graduate Hospital with a fractured skull. The car was driven by William Rennett, of 402 East Sixteenth Street.

Lieutenant Commander Zachariah H. Madison, U. S. N., drove his automobile into a wagon last night at Sixth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street. Two of his fingers were crushed. Neither wagon nor car was damaged.

Bleeding from cuts received when his motorcycle rammed an automobile truck at Seventeenth Street and Mermaid Avenue, Coney Island, last night, Louis Marcus noticed that many women were in the crowd that had gathered. Winding his coat sleeve tightly about his injured arm, he scooped up sand and sprinkled it about.

Marcus and his passenger, Joseph Young, of 76 Powell Street, Brooklyn, and Edward Forrest, of 214 West 102d Street, helper on the truck, were badly bruised in the collision. After an ambulance surgeon had dressed their injuries they went home. Marcus is sixteen years old and lives at 190 Glenmore Avenue, Brooklyn.

A touring car owned by Joseph W. Schloss, a button manufacturer, of 149 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, ran over Mrs. Rose Nodine, of Central Avenue, Yonkers, on Broadway there yesterday. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital unconscious from her injuries.

SUES WIFE HE SHUT UP
Inebriety Alleged, She Charges Trick in Home Commitment.

Roland D. Onfray, of 729 Riverside Drive, who recently had his wife, Kathleen, committed to the House of the Good Shepherd for three years because of her alleged inebriety, yesterday filed papers for a separation. On Friday Mrs. Onfray obtained a writ of habeas corpus to appear in court tomorrow to give evidence that she was tricked by her husband into voluntarily becoming an inmate of the institution.

Onfray said his wife had been cruel to him and that she had been guilty of habitual drunkenness for seven years. Twice, he said, he had her committed to a private hospital for alcoholism, but she turned to her old habits when released. He asks the custody of their two children, Tancredi, four years old, and Paul, one year old.

Mrs. Onfray said she had always gone out with her husband or his father and that drinking with her was a disease. She said she wished to go to the city, where she could get no liquor, but that her husband refused to allow her to leave the city.

Mrs. J. W. Osborne's Eyes Flash at Tanzer Grill for Husband

Spectators at First Round of Legal Duel Between Former Prosecutor and Martin W. Littleton, at Slades' Trial, Find Sensations Are Few.

In the presence of his wife and the diminutive Rae Tanzer, the girl who sued him for $50,000 for breach of promise, James W. Osborne endured the first round of cross-examination yesterday at the trial of David and Maxwell Slade, formerly counsel for Mrs. Tanzer, charged with conspiracy in relation to her discarded suit against the criminal lawyer. There were dramatic possibilities in the situation. Martin W. Littleton, as counsel for the defendants, who has gained prominence as an able and resourceful defender in many big criminal cases, notably the last trial of Harry K. Thaw, had the witness on the stand. Osborne, with a record as a relentless prosecutor in many famous criminal trials, suavely confronted his antagonist and waited for his shrapnel. Everybody expected an interesting conflict.

But the preliminary round proved tame. There was no clenching or close fighting. Both of these shrewd lawyers appeared to be sparing for time and a good opening. It is expected the fur will fly at the next session of court to-morrow.

Mrs. Osborne Interested. Judge Gordon Russell's court in the Federal Building was crowded with spectators and witnesses before the proceedings began. Mrs. Osborne arrived just after her husband had been recalled to the witness stand. Assistant United States Attorney Wood practically finished the direct examination of his witness on the day before. Mrs. Osborne was accompanied by her father, former Supreme Court Justice Augustus Van Wyck. She sat inside the rail and followed the proceedings intently.

Her piercing dark eyes flashed angrily when Mr. Littleton read the allegations of the Tanzer girl in the complaint against Mr. Osborne. Husband and wife exchanged sympathetic sarcastic smiles. Little Miss Tanzer sat huddled between her two sisters on a bench in the rear of the courtroom. Only her face was visible across the room. She looked tired and worried. Mrs. Osborne wore a new blue silk gown with a deep fluffy chiffon ruffle at her neck, and a snug blue straw hat topped by a high waving black bow. Her whole attitude was one of cheerfulness and confidence.

Mr. Osborne was the only witness at the half-day session. Mr. Wood first asked him a few questions about the telephone call from David Slade prior to the bringing of the breach of promise suit. After informing him that the Tanzer girl demanded he marry her, the witness said Slade told him she asserted she first met him on the street.

Mr. Wood turned the witness over to Mr. Littleton for cross-examination. The two lawyers battled at each other. Mr. Littleton began his examination smoothly and politely. Mr. Osborne seemed eager to answer the questions fully. His elaboration was interrupted by counsel at times. With the remark that "That is not part of the examination at this time."

Counsel for the defense had the witness fix all the dates of receiving letters from the Tanzer girl.

BEAR MOUNTAIN CALL TO DINNER DRAWS THROUG

Officials and Financiers at Opening of State's $150,000 Restaurant.

WHITMAN IS GUEST AT PERKINS'S MEAL

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Anne Morgan and E. H. Gary Among Guests—Prices Moderate.

Around a table in the sunny corner of the rustic automobile room at Bear Mountain Inn sat Governor Charles S. Whitman and Mrs. Whitman, George W. Perkins and Mrs. Perkins, Elbert H. Gary, Miss Anne Morgan and Averil Harriman. At adjoining tables were John D. Rockefeller, Jr., George F. Baker, John D. Archbold and other persons of wealth whose contributions have assisted New York and New Jersey in making Bear Mountain one of the scenic gems in Palisades Interstate Park.

Down below, on the first floor, persons who had never heard of the Social Register were purchasing food from booths and taking it to tables in the woods around the lake. Out there in the shade and within plain sight of the distinguished guests above working girls were forgetting the city's din in an outdoor nap. A glance at the inn and its surroundings showed that the Palisades Park Commission is no respecter of persons.

In honor of the formal opening of the new restaurant at Bear Mountain Mr. and Mrs. George W. Perkins gave a luncheon yesterday afternoon at 1:30 to Governor and Mrs. Whitman. Two hundred guests made the trip by automobile, many of them coming thirty-five miles from New York. There was nothing formal about the affair except the announcement of the official opening of the restaurant to the public. Everything else was informal to the most comfortable degree.

As president of the commission, Mr. Perkins desired to show the Governor representing the state which contributed $300,000 to the Palisades Park project and individuals who have added to the fund just what is being done with the money.

Perkins Leads Inspection. As soon as the luncheon was over Mr. Perkins, looking down at Governor Whitman and Mr. Gary, led the way for a brief tour of inspection around the inn. None of the children soaring back and forth in the swings or the sun-burned man in conventional blue serge suit and straw hat in hand was the Governor. Mr. Perkins wore a wide-brimmed Panama hat to shade his eyes from the June sun. Mr. Gary was bareheaded.

Among the commissioners present to assist Mr. and Mrs. Perkins in entertaining their guests were Franklin W. White, of Nyack; Edward L. Du Pratt, and William H. Porter, of New York City; Nathan F. Barrett, of New Rochelle; Frederick C. Sutro, of Basking Ridge, N. J., and Charles Whiting Baker, of Montclair, N. J.

Guests present included Francis L. Stebbins, of New York; Abraham D. Donde, J. B. Carse, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Dr. Emil Kunz, president of the American Social Society; Mr. and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, of New York; President Maurice E. Connolly of the Borough of Queens, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams, Fire Commissioner Robert Adams and Mrs. Adams, Henry C. McGraw, S. S. McClure and Miss Dorothy Perkins.

After spending the night at the home of Mr. Perkins, in Riverdale, Governor Whitman left in their host's automobile early yesterday, motored along the Jersey shore above the Englewood ferry landing to see what the commission is doing to improve the Blauvelt. Here one hundred girls in bloomers and middie blouses, spending their vacation at Camp Bluefields, sang a song "Cheer for Governor Whitman" and further ingratiated themselves in his favor by singing an American song.

MO. PAC. READJUSTMENT Provision To Be Made for a General Mortgage.

The plan of readjustment of the affairs of the Missouri Pacific Railway, it was announced yesterday, in addition to providing for the creation of a new consolidated blanket mortgage sufficient in size to refund all the present outstanding bonds, will also make provision for the creation of a second mortgage, to be known as a general mortgage. This mortgage will bear interest probably at 4 per cent, and will be offered to stockholders on the basis of 60 per cent of their present holdings on payment of the $50 a share assessment.

As mentioned in The Tribune yesterday, stockholders will receive 100 per cent of the amount of their subscription to the new capital in new preferred stock. Holders of the present 4 per cent bonds and 5 per cent first and refunding bonds, and of the 6 per cent scaling down of their holdings will receive new preferred stock for par.

The amount of the new stock to be issued will be between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000.

Mandalay to Go to Races. A special trip to the intercollegiate boat race will be made to-morrow by the steamer Mandalay, which will leave the Battery pier at 9:30 a. m. and West 131st Street an hour later.

On July 1 this steamer will resume its regular afternoon and evening "Up the Hudson" trips. Last year its large ballroom deck, well fitted for dancing, made the trips very popular. Starts at 7:30 p. m., and landings at 131st Street an hour later.

Erie Sells Ships. F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, announced yesterday that the company has sold four of its fleet of eight Great Lakes steamers to William C. Davidson, president of the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company. The sale was arranged as a direct result of the recent Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that all railroads operating freight lines on the lakes must dispose of them by December 1. The Erie, by its action, has assented to the decision.
